

St. John's Hospital

800 E. Carpenter St. Springfield, Illinois 62769

Saint John's Hospital was founded in 1875 by the Hospital Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis and is an affiliate of Hospital Sisters Health System. As a regional health care center, it provides tertiary care for the residents of central and southern Illinois.

Saint John's Prairie Heart Institute is recognized as a national leader in cardiac services and is home to the largest heart program in Illinois. Prairie Heart offers a wide range of specialized surgical procedures and sophisticated diagnostic services for cardiology and vascular patients.

St. John's Children's Hospital provides neonatal intensive care, a Level III Perinatal Center, pediatric critical care and pediatric inpatient services and pediatric rehabilitation. The Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Unit serves mothers and babies from nearly 40 Illinois counties.

Other specialty care areas include adult intensive care unit, a comprehensive Cancer Institute, stroke center/neurosciences, a regional wound care center, and orthopedic care, including the sports medicine program AthletiCare. Saint John's also offers adult day care, home health services, and inpatient and home hospice care.

Saint John's Hospital shares responsibility as the Level I Trauma Center in partnership with Memorial Medical Center and SIU School of Medicine. The two hospitals alternate responsibility for the trauma center annually. Saint John's utilizes an air/ground transport program for critically ill patients.

As Saint John's Hospital grows and moves into the future, staff remain committed to the Hospital Sisters' philosophy — "To serve suffering humanity for His sake."
